GLAUCOMA DETECTION CLINIC SET FOR SUNDAY

can be gradual and painless, and a person can remain unaware that he has the disease. Sight lost due to glaucoma can never be restored. Early detection and treatment are the only methods of preventing blindness from glaucoma.

Loss of side vision, inability to adjust to darkened rooms, blurred or foggy vision, or seeing rainbow-colored rings around lights may be symptoms of the disease. A persons exhibiting any of these symptoms should have a complete, professional eye examination.

Persons found to have symptoms of glaucoma will be referred to an eye physician for a complete eye examination. The Virginia Society for the Prevention of Blindness will maintain contact with each person so referred until it receives the eye physician's report. All Society programs are conducted with the approval and cooperation of local health and medical authorities.

On another page of this issue of The Times-Virginian you will find a glaucoma screening record card, please fill out form and bring it with you to the clinic on Sunday. Cut the form out of the paper.
